

Welcome to Monash University.

We're thrilled to welcome you into our community on the lands of the people of Kulin Nations for the Indigenous Nationals 2023, and pay our respects to the Elders, past and present. We extend those respects to each and every one of you joining us for this brilliant week of sport.

Monash is a vibrant and diverse place, built on the foundations of respect and inclusion. These values are crucial, allowing everyone in our community to feel safe and supported, all while being their authentic selves, on our campuses. It is expected that all Monash students and staff, and visitors to our campuses, uphold these important principles that underpin the Monash community.

By joining us as a member of the Monash community for the week, we expect that you will:

- Respect all members of the Monash community;
- Act safely and not endanger others;
- Engage safely around alcohol.

As a member of the Monash community, you can expect from us that we'll provide the same support and care to you as we do our own students and staff. If you experience any harm or disrespectful behaviour during your time here, whether that's physically on Monash campuses or during your other activities while here in Naarm, please know that we're here to help and support you.

To disclose or report disrespectful behaviour, get advice on how to keep safe and to access support, you can contact:

- Safer Community Unit - the Safer Community Unit (SCU) responds to reports and disclosures of harmful or concerning behaviour, including sexual harm. SCU staff will listen impartially to your concerns, discuss ways to keep you safe, help you find the support you need, and provide advice on reporting an incident.
- Monash bSafe app - the Monash bSafe app connects community members with a whole range of support services. You can also report anonymously any harmful or concerning behaviour to the Safer Community Unit via the app.

For advice or support, you can also feel free to contact Monash Connect who can support you to connect with the correct people or services at Monash.
